Conditions:

- Applicant is on the current waiting list for housing.
- Person/persons currently living in recreational vehicles under an Extended Stay Permit must not decline housing when it is offered.
- The RV is parked on a separate serviced lot, holds valid insurance and the owner of the vehicle has applied for tenancy and signed a tenancy agreement with the Housing department.
- Pad rent will be payable at a rate of $150/month. (to a maximum of $900) this may be paid in one lump sum or on a month to month basis.
- Prior to the approval of an Extended Stay Permit, RV may be subject to a health and safety inspection by First Nation Health Authority at the discretion of the housing department.
- Extended Stay Permits are only in effect for up to 6 months.

- Extended Stay Permits are not renewable
- Extended Stay Permits are subject to one 6-month extension (one year total stay) and are not subject to Appeal.

When the Extended Stay permit expires, the vehicle must be vacated and:

- a) removed from reserve lands, or
 - b) locked and put into storage on an existing Residential lot (with a house) under a Storage Permit, $25 for a period of time not to exceed 6 months without insurance indefinitely with storage insurance, or
 - c) stored on a vacant lot under a new tenancy agreement at a rate of $80/month.
1. While in storage the RV must not be occupied. If it is determined that someone is living in the RV while stored, this is grounds for immediate 24-hour eviction of the person/persons living in the RV. If the vehicle is stored on rental property, Housing may also serve a 30-day eviction notice to the renters of the rental property
