Use the Tool

This tool is intended to provide Indigenous peoples with an overview of housing-related funding and resources that may be available to either themselves or their communities. This tool provides a non-exhaustive list of links to funding programs and initiatives and related research and expertise in the area of housing that may be available to Indigenous peoples across Canada.

Users are advised that the Funding Opportunities Tool for Indigenous Housing is intended for information purposes only. Except for those programs and initiatives that are specifically qualified as being provided directly by CMHC, CMHC has no affiliation with any of the programs and initiatives designated as being provided by other organizations or levels of government. For greater clarity, the use of this tool does not guarantee funding to any of the programs or initiatives illustrated in the tool. Users are advised that any eligibility criteria for the listed programs and initiatives may be subject to change by the providers of the specific program or initiative. Users wishing to apply for any of the funding programs or initiatives are required to apply for funding in accordance with the respective intake processes as dictated by the applicable provider who delivers the specific program or initiative.

Information provided on the Funding Opportunities Tool for Indigenous Housing is on an “as is” basis and CMHC does not guarantee the accuracy of this content and shall not be responsible for any inaccuracies in or a user’s reliance on any of the content provided on the Funding Opportunities Tool for Indigenous Housing website. This is not a complete illustration of Indigenous resources and funding opportunities; additional research should be conducted by users who are interested in seeking funding opportunities corresponding to their needs.

While CMHC will strive to update this tool periodically, the information provided through the tool and the below links may change from time to time, and users are therefore advised to contact the providers of the resources and funding programs and initiatives directly for current and relevant information relating to these or other resources and funding programs or initiatives. Further, with the exception of content relating to CMHC’s programs and initiatives, the views expressed and any decision made in connection with the resources and funding programs or initiatives which may be accessed through the links below, are the views and/or decisions of the organizations and/or levels of government delivering such specific programs and initiatives, and CMHC will accept no responsibility for such views or decisions.
