Share Your Cleaning Knowledge

Introduction

You have learned all about cleaning products and how to use them safely in your home. Now, it is time for you to share that knowledge with others. Follow the instructions on this handout to help create an informational poster or a public service announcement about a cleaning product of your choice.

Instructions

Follow these steps to complete an informational poster OR a public service announcement:

- Choose a cleaning product (natural or commercial).
- Explain where to store this cleaning product.
- Explain how to use this cleaning product.
- Explain any safety precautions someone must take when using this product.
- Relate this product to the four domains of self in the Medicine Wheel.

Informational Posters

An informational poster gives the reader the most important information about something. Someone reading your poster should know how to use the cleaning product effectively and safely and why it could help keep them healthy.

Public Service Announcements

A public service announcement is a message to raise awareness about something and a call to action. Someone listening to your public service announcement should know how to use the cleaning product effectively and safely. You must also explain what to do with this information. Make sure the listener knows how using the cleaning product can help balance their physical, emotional, mental and spiritual domains!
